243. § 164 ^{CC}	Counsel, 17 January 2010	The Redemptive Action of God in Christ
244. § 165 ^{CC}	Counsel, 5 April 2016	Do Not Just Speak and Sing of Zion

ⁱ Contrary to the Joseph Smith Papers order, § 7 is placed before § 8–9 because: (1) considers the mention of Moses being translated in Alma 45 to occasion the inquiry into the status of John; (2) timeline of the translation of Alma 45 corresponds well enough with the approximate date of § 7; (3) the setting of § 7 has JS and OC debating the doctrine of translation, which makes it logical that OC would observe the translation of John’s parchment as a departure from Book of Mormon translation, a possible reason for the qualifiers opening § 8 about what OC can expect of the gift to translate; (4) favors JS’s memory of the sequence of events between § 7–9 over John Whitmer’s later order; (5) only place in extant fragments of original Book of Mormon manuscript in JS’s handwriting is Alma 45:22, which could correspond to the approximate timing of § 8–9 and close to the Alma 45 passage about Moses’s translation; if this marks the moment of OC’s attempted translation, this would mean § 7–9 were received in a short period; (6) the shorter period of production accounts for difficulty on the part of JS and OC to date these revelations, but not in ordering them; (7) intertextually, the texts of § 7–9 make more sense in this sequence than with § 7 wedged between § 8 and 9 as John Whitmer orders them.

ⁱⁱ The earliest heading for this document associates it with Wayne County, New York, and a date of 1830, but this was unlikely to have been prompted by JS’s Bible revision of the New Testament, since JS still worked from the Old Testament through all of 1830. The prompt likely included Sidney Rigdon and James Covell meeting JS. Whereas Covell did not prompt a revelation until early 1831, Rigdon objected to infant baptism, the content of 1 Cor. 7:14, and Rigdon’s interviews with JS in December 1830 could have spurred the question. § 35, received in December 1830, directed Rigdon to assist JS on the Bible revision, lending circumstantial evidence to a setting of inquiring into a New Testament passage. Had this been the case, a date for § 74 of 30–31 December 1830 would be less likely than closer to Rigdon’s arrival.
